Interest Begins To Mount For 3rd Annual Canoe Race

Michigan's beautiful and historic AuSable River will again be the stage for the states most gruelling outdoor sporting event of the fall season—the Third Annual Michigan Canoe Championship September 17-18.

To two Toledo, Ohio brothers goes the honor of being the first entries in the race. Allen, 22, and Bertrand Cobb, 19, sent their entry in to Race Secretary Robert Strong last week.

The race will begin at Grayling, where US-27 crosses the AuSable, down the river through Mio (M-39) and on to the finish line at Oscoda (US-23). The first canoe will start at 3 P. M., followed by others at ten-second intervals.

Because of the time differential of each canoe at the starting point, contestants will make up the time at Foot Dam, last of six power dams that require portaging during the race.

According to Ray Snider of Grayling, General Chairman, many of the 1947-48 contestants are planning to enter this year's canoe classic.

The 1948 Michigan Canoe Championship went to the brother team of Frank and Hugh Bissonette, of Oscoda, who completed the 240-mile non-stop grind in 19 hours and 58 minutes. They will attempt to better their time and defend their title in the 1949 canoe championship race.

Hoosier Airmen Ready For Return To Home Bases

Indiana's Air Guard composed of the 122nd Fighter Group is nearing the end of a two week training period at Grayling, Michigan. The group is now ready to shove off for their home bases.

The Group is made up of two Fighter squadrons, one of which is based at Indianapolis and the other at Fort Wayne. The Indiana Air Guard numbers about 150 men and officers and has 45 P-51 fighter planes, 3 C-47 transport planes and 4 B-26 bombers.

After an intensive training in air-to-air and air-to-ground gunnery, rocket firing and dive bombing, the group this week underwent the severe combat readiness test which shows the group's aptitude for keeping planes in the air under full simulated war time conditions.

The Indiana Air Guard is part of the 71st Fighter Wing which is composed of five states, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Illinois and Indiana. The readiness tests were sent from the Wing Headquarters at St. Louis, Missouri, and the Hoosier fliers never knew from one hour to the next when they would have to scramble for their planes and fly a mission that might be anywhere from 70 to 700 miles in length.

The Indiana Air Guard has spent most of this week in the Air Forces Readiness Operation tests. Among their missions were two altitude night flights to Detroit, 16 planes of the Fort Wayne squadron made the strike Monday night and the Indianapolis squadron made the flight Tuesday night.

The Hoosier airmen are expected to be paid on Thursday and Friday by checks which will be flown here by the Guard Finance Officer from the Indiana home base.

The homeward movement will be started off on Friday when the heavy truck convoys leave and will be followed upon Saturday with the remainder of the truck convoy leaving as well as a rail movement back to their home Hoosier guardmen. The air movement back to their home state is scheduled for Sunday.

The next regular meeting of the Civil Air Patrol, Grayling squadron will be held Sunday, August 28, at 7 P. M. at Grayling airport. The reason for the change from Thursday to Sunday is to make it easier for cadets to attend meetings and maneuvers.

Maneuvers begin at 2 P. M., at Grayling airport and will continue till dusk, weather permitting. Any cadets wishing to log observation time, will meet at C. A. P. quarters at 2:00 Sunday afternoon.

Lt. John Selesky commanding officer, and Lt. William Johnson, adjutant, are making plans to attend the "Air Rescue Class" at Selfridge Field, Sunday, August 21. The purpose of the class is to decide upon a standard "search pattern" for C. A. P.

The squadron is planning another dance to raise funds for its treasury. Details of this event will be published soon.

Our quarters will be returned to us as soon after the Air Guard maneuvers come to an end as possible.

George Annis was eighty years old on August 11 and on August 14 his son, Forrest Annis and family entertained at a family party in his honor at his home in Beaver Creek.

Close to thirty children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were on hand from Traverse City, Midland, Lansing and Grayling to wish him a happy birthday and partake of the large birthday cake decorated with a big 80.

The Tax Picture—

States, cities, and other local governments have been searching frantically for new sources of revenue. The cost of road building, fire protection, police service, and all other functions has skyrocketed. Local officials say, with considerable justice, that the taxpayers demand good and expanding services, but that they kick hard when taxes are increased. It is something like the case of the irresistible force meeting with the immovable object. And one of the major reasons for the difficulty is the extent to which the Federal government has increased its share of total national tax revenues.

U. S. News and World Report recently published a revealing graph to illustrate the trend. In 1940, the Federal government took $5,600,000,000 in taxes, and state and local bodies took $8,700,000,000. In other words, of every tax dollar the taxpayer shelled out, the Federal government received 39 cents and the other governments got 61 cents.

Now, the Federal government is taxing to the tune of $39,100,000,000 a year, while local governments take $14,500,000,000. Breaking this down, at present the Federal government swallows 73 cents out of each tax dollar while the rest of the governments get but 27 cents.

The result, as U. S. News points out, is that local governments "are moving into tax fields now occupied by the Federal government. Favorite old tax sources—income, sales, admissions, gross receipts, liquor, tobacco, gasoline, others—are being hit hard. Triple taxation is no longer any novelty." In a few places, residents actually pay three separate income taxes—one to the Federal government, one to the state, and third to the city.

"I trust you found that novel interesting," the librarian remarked hopefully.

"The book wasn't so much," the patron replied, "but letter someone left in it for a bookmark was a lulu!"

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

If They're Wild, They Belong To Tikl

Saw Tik Anderson last week and was reminded of the first time I ever spoke to him. The misus had sent me out one Saturday afternoon to hunt for some blackberries.

I took a long hike and couldn't find any. Finally, I came to Tik's house along that low stretch east of the fork on River Road. "Hi there," I says, "any blackberries around here?"

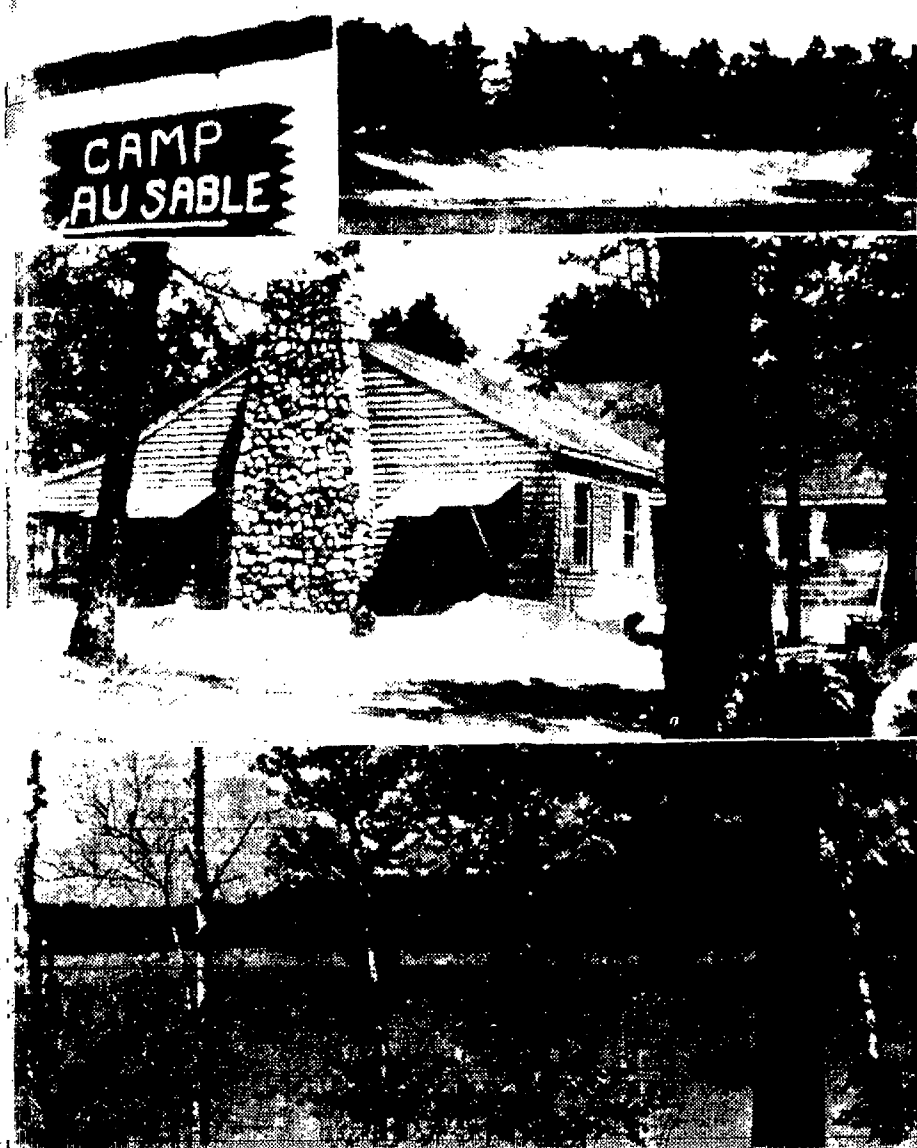

Tik says, "There used to be—but I don't know much about things that grow wild." Later, I found how Tik supports his family by picking berries. Ever since, I've been like the rest of folks in town—respectful of his right not to tell where "his" berries grow.

From where I sit, respecting other folks' rights comes natural in our town—in America for that matter! Whether it's a person's right to enjoy a temperate glass of beer or ale, or whether it's Tik Anderson's right to keep secret where his berries are, it's all a big part of a real democracy!

Camp AuSable Big Success

For the past month the new youth camp out at Shellenbarger Lake has been a very active place. Thirty-five tents have been erected and several truck loads of camping equipment were brought into this new youth camp. Final touches were made on a beautiful beach which was constructed on the south side of the lake.

Boys and girls from all the State of Michigan have come to this camp by the hundreds and have been thrilled with the beauties of nature and wild life found in this scenic spot just one mile east of Grayling.

Camp AuSable is operated by the Michigan Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists whose state headquarters are located in Lansing. For better than eighteen years this organization has conducted youth camps. Previous to the purchase of the 840 acres found around Shellenbarger Lake, the Michigan Conference owned and operated a camp known as Camp Pottawottomie at Gull Lake just outside of Kalamazoo, Michigan. Before the season closes this year better than a thousand people will have attended Camp AuSable.

Local business men have been greatly impressed with the size and type of buildings constructed at the camp. The modern dining hall and a modern latrine building along with the pump house have been completed.

During each camp the entire group of campers have been divided into two groups—one for a day of hiking and the other for a canoe trip down the AuSable River. Every Friday afternoon a water carnival is held at the camp. Canoe races, canoe tilting, swimming races, (greased watermelon fights), and other interesting water games are conducted for the campers.

The general manager of the recreational, educational and character-building program for all of these campers and young people is J. C. Miklos, youth secretary of the Michigan Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists. Mr. Miklos is assisted in the camp program by more than twenty other youth leaders, teachers and experts in various handicrafts and water front Red Cross work.

SHORT STORY Mister Gill

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

AT FIRST Mr. Otis Gill had seemed to take a liking to young Arthur Forbes. But he changed his opinion when the Champion began to buck the choppy seas of the open Atlantic.
 She was not a large liner, and the waves were running high. Arthur Forbes turned away suddenly and clutching the deck rail for support shaped an unsteady course for the companionway.

Mr. Gill burst into guffaws of laughter.

"Seasick!" he said, addressing a young couple nearby and nodding toward the companionway.

"Should have stayed home and tended to his knitting."

The young couple smiled politely but with a lack of enthusiasm.
 Neither of them felt equal to the task of getting up and following on young Arthur Forbes' heels.

The dining salon was located beneath the forward deck. Mr. Gill's table was at the extreme end, near that section where the vessel's bow began to narrow. He had hardly seated himself when he saw that young Arthur Forbes was placed two tables away and slightly behind. There was a plate of food on the table before the youth, but it was untouched. Like one in a trance Mr. Forbes was sitting with eyes widened greatly beyond their normal size, cheeks as pale as death.

After a time Mr. Gill saw that the youth at the other table was staring toward a port-hole, and his grin broadened. The port-hole was located far forward, and with each dip of the vessel one could see the entire slope of a wave, from trough to crest. Then for a space there would be nothing but open sky. It provided a sensation similar to riding on a roller coaster.

Mr. Gill knew that as long as young Forbes continued to stare through the port-hole his seasick-ness would steadily grow worse.
 And he chuckled at the thought.

After a while Mr. Gill found it was easier to stare straight ahead than to sit half-turned in his chair in order to watch young Forbes.

who, after all, wasn't the most pleasing sight in the world. And in staring straight ahead Mr. Gill found that he was looking directly through the port-hole at the swish-ing seas.

Mr. Gill was sober now; his face pale, his eyes glassy.

HE WATCHED idly for a few moments and then looked away, conscious of a feeling in his stomach not wholly normal. The sensation passed and he looked again at the port-hole, feeling more comfortable in this position. Instantly the same strange sensation attacked him again.

Mr. Gill was sober now; his face pale; his eyes glassy. Realization of what was happening to him came like a shock. He was seasick!

Helplessly, miserably ill. Never in his life could Mr. Gill remember feeling so utterly at the mercy of anything.

Miraculously Mr. Gill reached the doorway and disappeared up the stairs. Instantly the dining salon was a bed-farm of laughter. Up toward the bow young Arthur Forbes was

 v. pling some white substance from his cheeks and grinning broadly. Several men came over and spoke.

"I'll change your order, sir.
 Bring you some hot food."

Mr. Forbes smiled. "Thanks.
 And say, steward, that was a smart idea of yours—asking me to play the role of the helplessly seasick passenger and placing Gill at that table directly opposite the port-hole."

The steward nodded, eyes atwinkling. "We have a man like Mr.
 Gill on board every voyage, sir.
 And we have that table placed there for just his type. No one else is asked to sit so far forward."

Mr. Forbes chuckled. "Think of everything for the comfort of your passengers, eh? Well, if you didn't I'm afraid this voyage would have proved almost intolerable—with Gill talking the way he was."
